In the CWDT we have a lot of different people who work with disabled children. You may come across social workers, community care officers, residential workers, child in need reviewing officers and activity coordinators. We all work together to ensure the well-being of young disabled people in Kirklees. The staff come from various backgrounds and cultures and they have a range of skills, training and experience.

In Kirklees, the first person you are likely to make contact with is a Social Worker or Community Care Officer. Their managers are called Deputy Managers and above them are Team Managers. They are all responsible for day to day decision making.

Client group intended for:

The Children With a Disability Team can offer a child a service if he or she:

or has a special education statement for severe learning difficulties, and attends another type of school, that is outside the local authority - for example, Hollybank, Robert Ogden, and others.

attends a resourced school for children with speech and language difficulties, physical disabilities, visual or hearing impairment for young children with developmental delay or communication disability - such as autism. The developmental delay may need to be reassessed later.

Together these difficulties have a substantial effect on daily living, so the child needs constant or continuous support and supervision throughout the day. Or the child may be dependent on an adapted environment or special technology.
